

“Engaged employees don’t watch the clock. They love being there.”

— Walter Bond

Keep the following discussion questions in mind while you listen to Walter Bond discuss “Employee Engagement.” Use the space provided to write down your own thoughts about the topic and how it pertains to yourself, your company, and the people you lead.

How would you describe the current engagement level of your employees?

What are some ways you feel valued at work? How do you show your employees you value their hard work?

In what ways is communicating with employees different than connecting with them?

What are some workplace obstacles that can easily derail employee engagement?

EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT:
WHEN EMPLOYEES
FEEL PASSIONATE
ABOUT THEIR JOBS, ARE COMMITTED TO
THE ORGANIZATION
AND ITS GOALS, AND
PUT FULL EFFORT
INTO THEIR WORK.

ABOUT WALTER BOND

A former professional basketball player, Walter Bond’s NBA career included 153 games with the Dallas Mavericks, Utah Jazz, and Detroit Pistons. Now, Walter takes what he learned from his life on the court and translates it into motivational and educational messages for thriving businesses and careers. For more information, visit WalterBond.com.

For more fresh ideas for today’s leaders, visit RefreshLeadership.com.

Express
EMPLOYMENT PROFESSIONALS
ExpressPros.com