

“The number one responsibility of a leader is to help people develop and perform at their highest capabilities.”

— Walter Bond

Keep the following discussion questions in mind while you listen to Walter Bond discuss “Servant Leadership.” Use the space provided to write down your own thoughts about the topic and how it pertains to yourself, your company, and the people you lead.

In your own words, how would you describe servant leadership?

---

---

---

---

What are the benefits of ignoring the traditional corporate hierarchy when communicating with employees?

---

---

---

---

What are some ways servant leadership helps build employee engagement and a feeling of community at work?

---

---

---

---

Who are the servant leaders in your life? How do they embody the spirit of servant leadership?

---

---

---

---

SERVANT
LEADERSHIP:
EMPOWERING
OTHERS AND PUTTING
THE NEEDS OF THOSE YOU LEAD FIRST.

ABOUT WALTER BOND

A former professional basketball player, Walter Bond’s NBA career included 153 games with the Dallas Mavericks, Utah Jazz, and Detroit Pistons. Now, Walter takes what he learned from his life on the court and translates it into motivational and educational messages for thriving businesses and careers. For more information, visit WalterBond.com.

For more fresh ideas for today’s leaders, visit RefreshLeadership.com.

Express
EMPLOYMENT PROFESSIONALS
ExpressPros.com