Express Employment International

History of Express Employment International

Express Employment International, franchisor of Express Employment Professionals and affiliated brands, was established in 1983 by Robert A. Funk, William H. Stoller, and James Gray, who created the company after the dissolution of Acme Personnel, a Washington state-based company with which all three were associated.

That first year, Express Employment Professionals, founded in Oklahoma City, was able to generate gross revenues of $2 million in spite of the depressed economy. Following this success, the partners set their sights on large-scale growth and advanced toward expansion through franchising Express in 1985.

In 1986, the partners acquired the franchise rights to 30 Acme offices stretching across the United States. From the outset, the company has experienced phenomenal growth. Within five years, Express was ranked among the top staffing firms in the United States and was recognized by The Inc. 500 Index ('88) as one of the fastest growing privately held companies in the country. By 1990, Funk and Stoller purchased Gray's shares of the company.

In 1999, the company topped $1 billion in sales and by 2005 had a franchise network of 500 Express locations. Today, Express has more than 870 franchise locations in the U.S., Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

Express puts people to work. It generated $3.7 billion in sales and employed 427,000 people in 2024. Its longterm goal is to put a million people to work annually.

"For those in search of a new opportunity to better themselves and their families, we provide great hope," said Bill Stoller, CEO and Chairman of the Board. "Our vision is to help as many people as possible find good jobs by helping as many clients as possible find good people."

In 2024, Express Employment Professionals helped 427,000 people find jobs through more than 870 franchise locations in the U.S., Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. Since its inception, Express has put more than 11 million people to work worldwide. Express provides expertise in workforce management, including evaluation hire, temporary staffing, professional staffing and search, and works across a wide variety of industries.

Prior to co-founding Express, Stoller began his career with Acme Personnel Services in 1973 as a placement consultant and eventually worked his way up to district manager for Oregon and Utah.

Committed to sustainable environmental practices, in his spare time, Stoller converted his family’s Dayton, Oregon, turkey farm into a vineyard in 1993. The farm, in Stoller’s family since the 1940s, is now thriving and was the world’s first LEED® (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) Gold certified winemaking facility in 2006. Producing a variety of wine for the Stoller Family Estate label, they blend traditional gravity flow winemaking with energy efficient systems to preserve the quality of grapes while reducing negative environmental impact. In 2018, Stoller expanded his interests, acquiring ownership of the Chehalem Winery & Vineyards.

Corporate Citizenship

Express Employment International actively encourages its offices to engage with and support local charities and organizations, fostering a strong commitment to community impact.

Brand It Blue Initiative

North American Express franchise locations join together to serve their communities as part of our international volunteering initiative, Brand It Blue. Previously a one day volunteering blitz, the expanded Brand It Blue Initiative allows Express to serve people and communities on multiple days and in a variety of ways.

By partnering with numerous local causes, Express International and franchise offices alike work to expand our mission and strengthen communities, pooling together our collective efforts to do the most good in cities across the United States and Canada.

Express Philanthropy

In the spirit of community partnership, Express supports many organizations on both an international and local level. Our corporate philanthropic committee designates funds to a variety of causes each year to support the following areas:

- Community Enhancement
- Education
- Health & Human Services
